

Community Based Disaster Management

آبادی کی سطح پر قدرتی آفات کے متعلق منصوبہ بندی

Why Is CBDM Important?

When disasters occur, local government or public department can not work well to rescue affected people, especially in rural areas. In the time of the earthquake of 2005 in Pakistan, many people were affected because of vulnerable buildings and societies. Building safety is one of the most significant measures to reduce damages but cooperation among community is also important. Community Based Disaster Management (CBDM) emphasizes sustainable community safety.

Objectives

- To have participants understand the importance of CBDM
 - To have participants gain knowledge for making training program for CBDM

امان

Digitized by srujanika@gmail.com

Disaster Risk Management

Participants of this training are village leaders, government workers, local NGOs, and other educated people. They tried this group work and discussed so that they can be resource persons in their villages.

گریزی کا
کیفیت ادا کے لئے

This poster is the outcome of training program. Opinions expressed in the poster are those of the participants of the training program, and do not represent the opinion of the organizations.