Overview

With the massive earthquake and the following tsunamis happened on 11 March 2011 (14:46 JST), the death toll is still raising and reached 8,450 today. The casualties and missing are expected to exceed 21,000, the worst number of loss Japan has experienced since the WWII, as there is still great number of people who are not reachable.

There are about 335,000 evacuees in 2,300 shelters as of the time of reporting. With great efforts by the Japanese government, local/international NGOs, and other players, relief items started to reach the affected communities, yet localized information is not reaching the most needed due to lack of information receivers (TV/radio). In Miyagi Prefecture, there are 140,000 evacuees (was 220,000 on 18 March). On top of that, people near Fukushima Nuclear Power Plants started evacuate to surrounding Prefectures and it is expected that the number will continue to increase. Prolonged stay in shelters are affecting health problem of already vulnerable evacuees; diarrhea and high-fever are reported to spread in some of the shelters.

Access to the affected area is gradually opening via sea and air, however, lack of fuel for transportation is still delaying the overall relief operation. Many people are stranded in remote areas due to lack of fuel for transportation and their survival depends on the support from outside.

While efforts to cool the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Plant continues, radiation leak is affecting local vulnerable farmers in Fukushima and nearby Prefectures as reports on above-limit contamination level are found in vegetables and milk.

This report will further include the following information: 1) Situation by Affected Prefectures, 2) Relief Operation by Japanese Humanitarian NGOs, 3) <Map> Active Japanese Humanitarian Organizations, 4) <Chart> Relief Operation by Japanese Humanitarian Organizations in Major Affected Cities, and 5) List of Relief Supply Needs.

As part of our response to the Tohoku earthquake, SEEDS Asia is supporting the affected communities by compiling humanitarian information on the ground in the affected area to be disseminated to the greater humanitarian community.
